Ma Mackwen must be complimented on the able speech which he made yesterday in the Legislative Council. It is the first big speech that has come from the unofficial side since he left eighteen months ago. Mr Ryrie, during the interval, has kept up a desultery warfare, but, as he does not take the trouble to some well posted up, he is not always as effective as could be desired. The other members are mostly man of faw words and have as a rule been content with registering their votes against the measures they disapproved of. His Excellency had the whole say, and it must be admitted that he did his best to make up for the tagiturnity on the other side. Of course the other officials, with the exception of the Attorney General, are not expected to say much. They are mainly there to make up the Government majority, rantable demand that is made upon an already heavily taxed Colony. The conduct of the Home authorities has been anything but creditable-indeed, scarcely honorable. They obtained from us a vote of £120,000 for the building of forts, on the understanding that they were to supply them with breach-loading guns. The forts are made; our part of the contract has been faithfully carried out. Not so the other party to the bargain. The heavy guns for the forts have not yet been de- the Imperial Customs of China issued livered. We do not know if they have quarterly; and if Mr MacEwen and his ably falled to perform their part of the contract, saking us for a large increase in would give us as much information as the military contribution. The thing is would be of any practical use. The truth They may of course say that the money now asked is not for the same statistics. As a rule they have their own It is not wanted for forts, but extra regiment that is being formation they want. That interpretation may be the lotter, but with certainly is not with the spirit of the agreement. We warned the alarmists, when they were abricking about the necessity of a new regiment, that the inevitable result would be that we would be asked to pay And now our warning has come true. We do not altogether see the necessity for such a large addition to our If our forts are well mounted the men we have already got-a regiment and a company-ought to be about sufficient to defend the place against a hostile attack. It is right certainly to provide against probable dangers, but if a nation seeks to guard against all the evils that are within the range of possibility or conceivability, it may consume all its energies in providing against imaginary dangers. Of course i the Colony is rogarded mainly as a basis for military and naval operations in the Far East, it may be that we are inade quately provided; but then the question arises-Is it fair to ask Hongkong to pay so largely for the furtherance of purely Imperial interests " Considering the privileges granted to the naval and military authorities, the very valuable ground they occupyato the serious restriction of the Colony's development, we think that we have made a sufficient ascrifice for our own advisable to build houses for certain public, won by Constable McLembary Not 85 for Between while he was administering the defence and for the upholding of British interests in this quarter of the world. I think it more prodent to admit at once, that this is one of those matters in which the most experienced would besitute to return any definite answer.

The Acting Colonial Secretary-The senior unofficial member has asked a question about the forts. The second instalment of £60,000 was voted by the Council and a rider was added that it was on the distinct understanding that the colony was not to be maked for any more. That vote was recoived by the Imperial Government without any remark. We cannot call it a guaranits opinion nothing has been said on the other side. The $30,000 asked for next

His Excellency-Do I understand that when this sum of $30,000 is expended the whole of the £120,000 will not have been

The Acting Colonial Secretary Oh no. His Excellency—I understand the question to be whether this $30,000 is a fresh vote or is it the remaining unspent portion

The Acting Colonial Secretary-I must apologise for not being very well posted in these details. I have been absent for sixteen months, and since my return I have been nearly the whole time on my back. I am now informed that this $30,000 does not nearly exhaust the £120,000. With regard to the question of audit, I should like to say word. There is no objection to be raised to Imperial audit by any ressonable man, In any department every conscientione officer does not care two strays who audits the accounts, masmuch as he has done his audit it is not so much better as to justify the heavy expenditure it entails, While on this point I may say that any suco asful Imperial audit carried out at home must be a mistake. Let me give one instance of what I mean. When Sir William Marsh strived here he brought in a system of audit reform, The Post Office and Stamp Revenue Office, being a department through which a large number of accounts pass, he sent down a number of questions to be answered and reports to be made with regard to different items. Sheet after sheet of foolscan came, and at last, instead of answering these. I wrote a letter asking him to come and spend a morning inoffice. He came down and spent some three or four hours, there and went into every item of collection, and he said that he earnt more from that that he ever could have done on paner. Arrangements which appeared to be absolutely monstrous when described on paper he found to be capable of very little alteration or to refer to sums so trivial that it was not worth while to go into more detail, and things that I had thought were done in the most convenient way he pointed out to me and convinced me were not so safe as they might be, and we therefore put them, on possibly a more troublesome, but certainly a more satisfactory basis. Now, all this could not have been discovered had he not gone there, and that is why I say that no nudit conducted ten thousand miles from the colony can be really autisfactory, because i is simply done on paper, and it is impos paper explanations. who does not too what is really going on, to obtain any idea of

Thursday, December 5. IP:RIP OREE V. BRANDT-ANOTHER BROKERAGE CASE.

This was a claim for $37.50 as brokerage. Mr Rodyk appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant appeared in person.

In Hip Chee, the plaintiff, said-I am s broker. On the 17th June last I received instructions from the defendant to sell 50 Punjoins. I found a buyer named Lam Tam Chun. I submitted his name to the defendant and he was ratisfied, and handed him the contract note. brokerage on Punjoms is 25 cents per On the 29th June I received an order from the defendant to sell 57 China Sugar shares. I got the same buyer and he was quite satisfied with him. The brokerage on China Sugars is 53 cents per share.

The defendant said he did not admit the claim. The contracts were cancelled, and besides there was a positive arrangement that the plaintiff would not get any brokerage from him. (To the plaintiff) Are you aware that both these contracts were cau-

Plaintiff-Yes. The defendant then went into the witnessthe marriage of one of my clerks. He told me he was trying to do share business and asked me to support him. I told him to see me next day, and when he came I said would assist him, but he must not expect the same brokerage as other brokers as he had not the same facilities. He consented to receive brokerage in the same way as al other Chinese brokers I deal with, and was quite satisfied; that is to say, whom Ohinese broker gets one brokerage I don't at all and he is quite satisfied. It is very good brokerage indeed. Some afterwards I made a purchase of 50 China Fires from him : I poid tim cash and he never asked for brokerage and nover got it ! in fact I told the purch : ter that was our arrangement... With regard to the shares now in operation both the plaintiff and the purchaser came to my office and the contracts were cancelled. At that time the plaintiff did not ask for brokerage and never mentioned it in any way and did not even attempt to claim

His Lordship said the plaintiff was en itled to charge brokerage in the ordinary courses of business, and if the defendant set up an extraordinary arrangement the onus probandi was on him. He had failed to prove that arrangement, and there must therefore be judgment for the plaintiff with costs.
